Ohio Woman Export Chief Finds Experiences Unique

Re International News Service subject for conversation

The International News Service

CLEVELAND One of the few women in the United States to hold the position of export manager with a manufacturing concern is Miss Dorothy Kimmel of Cleveland.

As manager of foreign trade for an automotive parts concern Miss Kimmel signs her name D Kimmel to disguise her sex. She explains that business men in other parts of the world might not feel completely at ease dealing with a woman.

After all a shipment of axles or brake drums dispatched with the signature of Dorothy might create something of a surprise in remote parts of the world where equality of the sexes is merely a subject for conversation.

During a recent business trip to Puerto Rico and San Domingo, Miss Kimmel found herself greeted with surprise when she was taken into the office of one that she had introduced herself as export manager of the Lampico Electric Co. of Cleveland.

Signs Name With D

Although familiar with the signature of D Kimmel they had been expected to find the D belonged to a Dorothy and not a Daniel or a Daniel.

Miss Kimmel has found a pleasant memory invaluable in her business career. When she is able to greet an old customer with a personal inquiry about some member of his family or recall a familiarity about the individual the impression created is most favorable. Because of this, she has schooled herself to retain every scrap of information about her customers and backs up her memory with a notebook full of facts about the person with whom she deals.

When importers come to town, the inevitable party to be entertained and usually their choice of diversion is a night club. Miss Kimmel has found visitors to this country invariably entertain an impression of the United States as a place occupied mainly by gangsters, gunmen and movie stars and they are always eager to meet

During her student days at Ohio State University she made it a point to master French and Spanish. as traffic clogs the street from curb to curb. Nerves quiver with fatigue. Feel those stomach muscles tighten? Lighten Camel for digestion's sake.

Smoking Camels Found to Ease the Strain and Promote Well-Being

Life gets more complex. The pace grows faster. People live harder. Where do we see the effects? Frequently on digestion, so often overtaxed by the busy whirl! Smoking Camels is of definite aid in promoting good digestion. Turn to Camels yourself. They have a mildness and delicacy that never grow flat or tiresome. Make the pleasant experience of smoking Camels part of your daily life, and see how much more zest you have for smoking and how your digestion is measurably improved. Camels set you right!

And now, we come to one of modern life's most gracious privileges—dining at Keen's English Chop House in New York, as shown at the right. Like the Mermaid Tavern of Shakespeare's day, Keen's is famous as a gathering place of congenial spirits.

"We've noticed that patrons who appreciate fine foods also appreciate fine tobaccos," says William (Taber), of Keen's. "Camels are a favorite at Keen's English Chop House. We've noticed that our guests who smoke Camels during and after meals seem to find more pleasure in dining."

Mrs. Thurn Gives Recipes Appropriate for February

Long and over-the-counter equipment and pre-made mixes are the order for the month of February. The menu for the month is a series of dishes that are both delicious and easy to make. The first dish is a simple salad, followed by a hearty soup, and then a main course of meat and vegetables. The month ends with a delicious dessert.

in one fourth cup pineapple juice. Heat one cup pineapple juice in an enamel or agate ware saucepan and add the gelatine and sugar and stir until dissolved. Cool by adding the remainder of the pineapple juice and gingerale. Fill small molds which have been wet with cold water. Let set in the refrigerator. Unmold and serve garnished with a line of whipped cream outlining the top of the heart. Makes six to eight servings. Can be served as a salad if garnished with mayonnaise instead of cream and served in a nest of curly crisp lettuce.

The same good flavor is in this new pudding I found the other day at luncheon. It makes a suitable dessert for a Lincoln's Birthday luncheon or bridge party served with a fruit cake or gingerbread log cabin (See Illustration).

This red dessert is also a favorite for St. Valentine's day parties. One pint cranberries one half cup water one cup sugar one half teaspoon grated orange rind one eighth teaspoon salt two eggs two tablespoons honey one teaspoon vanilla one cup whipping cream.

Simmer cranberries and water together strain then add sugar and orange rind. Chill. When cold beat in yolk of one egg then fold in one beaten egg white into which has been beaten one tablespoon sugar. Beat other egg white stiff and add one tablespoon sugar. Beat cream until thick but not stiff then fold together with the last egg mixture.

Line a freezing tray of the automatic refrigerator with a long strip of waxed paper allowing one inch to extend over each end. Fit into the tray a slice of sponge cake one fourth inch thick. Add the jellied cranberry and finally the cream mixture. Freeze in the refrigerator until firm. When ready to serve lift from the tray with the waxed paper then slice into squares. Serves six or eight.

Baked Sandwiches. Turkey chicken or other sliced meat left over one can mushroom soup slices of toast, grated cheese paprika buttered soft pepper.

Make sandwiches of buttered toasted bread and turkey meat sliced or chopped adding salt and pepper to the meat. Cut into triangles and place in a buttered baking dish. Pour over them the canned soup. Sprinkle generously with cheese. Bake in a moderate oven 350 degrees Fahrenheit until the cheese is slightly browned.

Make a good dish to serve in the casserole at the table or to put on a supper plate. Garnish with sweet potato au gratin and broiled pineapple rings or broiled apple fritters. A gelatin salad an appetizer such as one of

OVEN COOKED DINNER POPULAR IN WINTER

Menus and Recipes Suggested for Method That Saves Fuel, Work and Time

The oven cooked dinner grows in popularity with each month—especially in the winter time. And housekeepers can't be blamed or this method of preparing a dinner saves fuel time effort and hard work—and why shouldn't we all try to avoid these in our daily round of housekeeping—if they can be avoided and the family still be fed with success?

Here is one menu: Casserole of chicken, Steamed Potatoes, Lima Beans, Baked Indian Pudding, Mixed Green Salad, Coffee.

All but the salad and coffee is prepared in the oven and cooked at one time. To make the chicken casserole cut up into serving pieces a two and a half or three pound fowl dredge well with seasoned flour brown in a little fat in a skillet. Remove the chicken and place in a casserole or covered baking dish. Make a gravy of flour and milk and the drippings in the skillet. Cook the gravy until thick add a can of sliced mushrooms heat a moment more. Pour over the chicken. Cover. The oven should be cold. Set your temperature control to moderate or 350 degrees F. and bake two and a half hours. Place to the back of the oven.

Steamed Potatoes. Pure six or eight large potatoes place in a casserole or baking dish. Add one half-cup water in a saucer. Cover. Place in the cold oven at the same time as the chicken. Set the potatoes to the front of the oven. When done sprinkle with melted butter and salt.

Steamed Lima Beans. Prepare lima beans by washing (dried beans) and soaking overnight. Place in casserole and add one fourth cup water and seas along and cover. Steam in the oven as the potatoes for the entire duration of the chicken cooking. Season with melted butter and salt and pepper before serving.

Indian Pudding. Three cups scalded milk three tablespoons cornmeal one-third cup molasses one-half cup sugar one beaten egg one and one-half tablespoons butter one-fourth teaspoon salt one-half teaspoon ginger one-half cup butter in addition.

Mix scalded milk with cornmeal add molasses and cook stirring constantly until thick. Remove from heat, add sugar egg butter and spices, which have been mixed together. Pour into a greased baking dish. Place in the oven with the rest of the meal.

When a half hour of baking time is up open the oven and pour one half cup of milk over the pudding. The pudding should be placed at the front of one of the oven racks. Continue baking until the time for the chicken is up. All dishes are then ready to serve at once.

Another Menu. Mixed Vegetable Juices, Sausage and Hominy Casserole, Steamed String Beans, Pineapple Gelatine Salad, Rolls and Butter, Apple Pie, Coffee.

The casserole rolls and apple pie are all cooked at one time. To prepare the Sausage and Hominy Casserole. Have ready one pound bulk sausage one can (No. 24) hominy two cups canned tomatoes drained one and one-half teaspoons salt three tablespoons minced green pepper one fourth teaspoon pepper buttered bread crumbs.

Brown sausage in a skillet add other ingredients place in a greased casserole then sprinkle with buttered crumbs. Have the oven preheated to hot or 400 degrees F. place dishes in and bake for forty five minutes. Or start with cold oven and set temperature at 400 degrees F. or hot and bake one and one-half hours.

The dinner rolls and apple pie from your favorite recipes are placed in the oven with the casserole and all are ready at the same time by the above method.

CHAPTER TWENTY TWO
Lovely Lady

"Very nice little place you have here Mr. Askew said Bobby kindly and condescendingly. Very nice and snug."

Mr. Askew expressed gratification. "Merroway Court the only big place in the neighborhood?"

Well there's the Grange Mr. Hawkins. Not that you call that a place exactly. There's no family living there. No it had been empty for years until this American doctor took it.

An American doctor? "That's it—Nicholson his name is. And if you ask me Mr. Hawkins there are some very queer goings on there."

The barmat at this point remarked that Dr. Nicholson gave her the shivers he did.

Goings on Mr. Askew? said Bobby. Now what do you mean by goings on?

Mr. Askew shook his head darkly. "There it is there that don't want to be there. Put away by their relations. I mean you Mr. Hawkins the mooning and the shrieks and the groans that go on there you would not believe."

Why don't the police interfere? "Oh well you see it's supposed to be all right. Nerve cases and such like. Counters that aren't so very bad. The gentleman a doctor and it's all right so to speak. Here the landlord buried his face in a pint pot and emerged again to shake his head in a very doubtful fashion."

"Ah said Bobby in a dark and meaning way. If we knew every thing that went on in these places. And he too applied himself to a power pot."

The barmat chimed in eagerly. "What goes on there? Why one night a poor young creature escaped—in her nightgown she was—and the Doctor and a couple of nurses out looking for her?"

Somebody present said that there was no knowing what went on in places. At least someone else said that was right.

Finally the meeting broke up and Bobby announced his intention of going for a stroll before turning in.

The Grange was, he knew, on the other side of the village from Merroway Court so he turned his footsteps in that direction. What he had heard that evening seemed to him worthy of attention.

A lot of it could, of course, be discounted. Villages are usually prejudiced against newcomers and still more so if the newcomer is of a different nationality. If Nicholson was a place for curing drug-takers there would naturally be strange sounds issuing from it—groans and even shrieks might be heard without any sinister reason for them.

But all the same the story of the evening girl struck Bobby unpleasantly. Supposing the Grange were really a place where people were kept against their will? A certain number of genuine cases might be taken as excusing.

At this point in his meditations Bobby arrived at a high wall with an entrance of wrought iron gates. He stepped up to the gates and tried one gently. It was locked. Well after all why not?

And yet somehow the touch of that locked gate gave him a faintly sinister feeling.

He moved a little farther along the road measuring the wall with his eye. Would it be possible to climb over? The wall was smooth and high and presented a serious looking crannies. He shook his head. Suddenly he came upon a little door. Without much real hope he tried it. To his surprise it yielded.

But of an overnight here thought Bobby with a grin. He slipped the bolt, closing the door softly behind him.

He found himself on a path leading through a shrubbery. He followed the path which twisted a good deal. Suddenly without any warning it gave a sharp turn and emerged into an open space close to the house. It was a moonlit night and the space was bright. Bobby had stepped full into the moonlight before he could stop himself.

At the same moment a woman's figure came around the corner of the house. She was trending very softly along, from side to side with or as it seemed to the watching Bobby—the nervous aloofness of a hunted animal. Suddenly she stopped dead and stood swaying as though she would fall.

Bobby rushed forward and caught her. Her lips were white and it seemed to him that never had he seen such awful fear on any human countenance.

"It's all right," he said reassuringly in a very low voice. It's quite all right.

The girl for she was little more than a girl, shuddered half closed. "I'm so frightened," she murmured. "I'm so terribly frightened."

"What's the matter?" asked Bobby.

The girl only shook her head and repeated faintly "I'm so frightened. I'm so terribly frightened."

Suddenly some sound seemed to come to her ears. She sprang up right away from Bobby. Then she turned to him.

"Go away," she said. "Go away at once!"

"I want to help you," said Bobby.

Do you? She looked at him for a second or two a strange searching and moving glance. Then she shook her head.

"No one can help me."

"Oh, quick! They're coming. You can't help me unless you go now!"

At once—at once! Bobby yielded to her urgency. With a whispered "I'm at the Anglers Arms," he plunged back along the path.

Suddenly he heard footsteps on the path in front of him. Someone was coming along the path from the little door. Bobby plunged abruptly into the bushes at the side of the path.

A man passed close to Bobby, but it was too dark for the young man to see his face.

When he had passed Bobby resumed his retreat. He felt that he could do nothing more that night. Anyway his head was in a whirl.

For the girl was the original of the photograph which had so mysteriously disappeared.

Frankie and Bobby shook it, tomorrow, for London.

field with its 1929 models and built 123,605 units that year. The second million-car year was 1935, with a total of 1,000,190. Since its inception in 1917 Chevrolet has built over 10 million cars, more than half of them being six cylinder models.

A comparison of the 1929 model sizes with those of 1935 shows just as great an advance in engineering and performance as in appearance. The 1935 2-door 6 cylinder was a 1/2 ton engineer of Chevrolet Motor company.

The 1929 models had 16 horsepower and today's have "20" remarked Mr. Crawford. "If it had not been for engineering progress toward greater fuel efficiency today's engine would naturally have to be much larger than that of 1929 to develop so much more than we did in 1929.

"In the seven years that Chevrolet has been building sixes, the car has been increased in wheel base from 10 inches to 112, and from 1000 pounds to 2600, increased from 2675 to 3190 pounds.

"These gains in power efficiency economy and car size have all been free to the motorist. That is, today's cars despite their vastly increased performance are more economical to operate than were the first sizes, and although they are larger heavier and of course wonderfully improved in appearance comfort and safety their prices today are lower than those of the first Chevrolet sixes.

Yes we all do this—until some day we decide to look around and really discover the place we live in. Let's start with the living room. That couch seat—how dingy and dull it looks. And there's a rough place where the cat sharpened its claws. The rug is worn and stained. The walls are dingy and the floor is scratched. The room is a mess. It's time to fix it.
